This two-day course for building professionals discusses strategies for incorporating green-building principles into homes without driving up the cost of construction. You will learn how green homes can provide buyers with increased energy efficiency, lower maintenance, better indoor air quality, and improved long-term value.

This course is one of two classes required for The National Association of Home Builders' Certified Green Professional™ (CGP) designation, which recognizes builders, remodelers and other industry professionals who incorporate green building principles into homes. The other required course for the CGP designation is Business Management for Building Professionals. You can earn the CGP designation by passing both of the classes and then submitting your CGP application and enrollment fee to NAHB.
